

jakob k. - your great imagination something

(music: jakob künzel / lyrics: dominique alioth) won't you show me something something I haven't seen before something I haven't seen a million times before

something great, something strange, something beautiful am I asking too much something new, something true, something wonderful
 am I asking too much

won't you tell me something something I haven't heard before something I haven't heard

something unnamed, something unclaimed, something honestly
 am I asking too much
something unframed, something unchained, something free for free
 am I asking too much

won't you play me something (2x) something overflowing with fantasy something timeless for my stupid memory finally something truly moving me something I would die to live for now
